

Christine

Originally from Northern VA, Christine moved back to DC after graduation to be a consultant like 99.9% of the city's workforce. Ever the well-rounded individual, this all-girls school veteran's hobbies include Sudoku (book form, not electronic), doing anything active and/or outdoors, bending it like Beckham on several soccer leagues while simultaneously wishing the U.S. had the same passion for soccer as the rest of the world, yoga, and Pilates. She also has a love for traveling that is paralleled only by her ability to get sunburned. While backpacking, she has managed to get confused for a gypsy, meet a Chinese pop star, and eat fried scorpion.
